CURLING YEARBOOK

THE ROYAL CALEDONIAN CURLING CLUB OF SCOTLAND, Alberta Branch

"here's to good

Branch President

DR. A. B. BLUMES
CALGARY, 1961-1962

It was tennis, not curling, that first caught the fancy of this season's Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Club, president. But Dr. A. B. Blumes has long since made up for this misplaced loyalty.

This friendly general practitioner was born in Winnipeg 52 years ago. Once he had his degree from the University of Manitoba tucked in his pocket, he moved to Delia and it was there that he was introduced to curling.

The love affair has been going on ever since. He was instrumental in the building of the eight-sheet Meadowlark Club in South Calgary and it was as a delegate from this club that he first hooked on with the Alberta branch, RCCC.

He was an above-average tennis player and pursued the game during the years (the early forties) that he was a member of the Glencoe Club.

His will be a rather difficult term because there isn't the excitement of the Canadian curling championships. But there is the game itself, and to Dr. Blumes this is all that was ever needed.

The Report of the President

With the issue of this our second annual, we take this opportunity to greet all our members with the hope of a good curling season. It is pleasant to see several new rinks starting, many rinks obtaining artificial ice and the opening of twenty-four more sheets of ice to make a total of forty-eight at the Big Four. Of course with the increase in the number of sheets of ice, there has been a rapidly increasing number of curlers, and that creates its problems. Curling is not only a game of skill, but a way of playing the "game." There are not sufficient members of the old guard to teach the mechanics of curling, let alone its art.

The increase in numbers has been so rapid, that I wonder if they have a chance to learn what the game of curling really is. It is not just a matter of being very proficient in throwing a stone, sweeping a broom or setting up a house. These are only the mechanical parts of curling and proficiency in the above does not necessarily make one a "curler." Winning is very important but should not be sought to the exclusion of good fellowship, sportsmanship and friendship. A good loser is a much nicer person and better curler than the arrogant (and often poor) winner; to compliment your opponent on a good shot, (though it be the shot that beat you), and shake his hand at the end of the game thanking him for a good game is all a part of curling.

The word Professional is now being heard in reference to curling. A few years ago the West rejected unanimously a bid by the East to classify Professionalism in curling, but today another good look has to be taken at this aspect of curling. We all enjoy Bonspiels, and would like to see bigger and better prizes, even straight money spiels. Even the Car Spiels, though they worried us, did not make us consider Professionalism in curling. An attempt should be made to curtail this trend to more and bigger money spiels, better prizes and exhibition games. Action should be taken to keep curling the "Amateur" sport it is. How to control this trend without bringing in Professionalism into curling will be difficult.

Alberta Branch

(Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland)

The Need for Affiliation

The large family that is curling today can best be likened to a giant pyramid. The broad base is the hundreds of thousands of curlers who play the game. And, like most pyramids, a solid base is the most important.

From there the game narrows to a peak which is the Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland, the mother club for curling throughout the world. When a club affiliates, as almost all have within the confines of the Alberta branch, RCCC, it becomes eligible for the many benefits extended those who are a member of this sprawling family.

Branch bonspiels, zone playdowns, the Canadian championships — they all are within reach of the curlers who belong to affiliated clubs. Then, too, many district clubs have members on the executive of the branch and thus participate directly in the administration of this particular curling democracy.

The Work of the Branch

No matter what the length of the curling season, the work of the Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Club, goes on almost year-round. The branch's biggest show, run for its member curlers, is the annual bonspiel. It's one of the largest in the west and now regularly attracts between 230 and 260 rinks. This year it will be held February 19-24.

Then, too, the branch is responsible for the district, the southern Alberta (and every other year the provincial) playoffs among the men (the Consols) and the schoolboys (Taylor, Pearson and Carson). And in the last 13 years it has staged three Canadian championships. The branch owns rocks which it loans to member clubs for bonspiels, it has a cash reserve with which it assists member clubs financially. And this season it plans to donate two scholarships to worthy schoolboy curlers. And the branch is the voice of the curlers with the Dominion Curling Association.

The branch is strong because of its members. And the members benefit because of the strength of the branch.

The Annual of the Branch

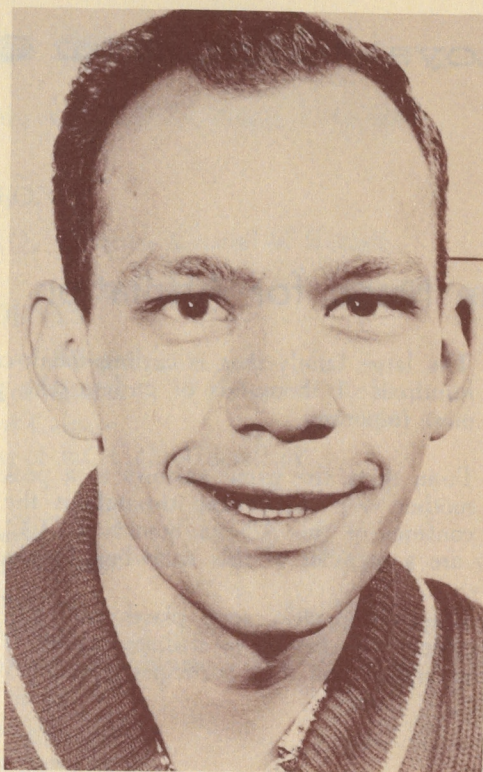

For the second straight year, the branch is printing an annual — a publication designed to record the yearly activities of the branch and contain the many records which have been compiled over the years. It is designed, too, to offer news and events from all the districts. The conveners in each district are responsible for this flow of information.

The publication, one of the few prepared by curling groups, is possible because of the work of the branch's publicity and printing committee under the competent eye of chairman Norris Wood.

The cover design is by Nels MacDonald and the issue was edited by Johnny Hopkins of the Calgary Herald.

The Grandest of Shows

In retrospect, the 1961 Canadian curling championship must be considered as the frolic in which Hector Gervais couldn't stand prosperity.

After the seventh round, when Saskatchewan succumbed 7-6, Gervais had seemingly overcome the only hurdle between him and Alberta's eighth tankard triumph.

And when Saskatchewan (with Garnet Campbell making all the big decisions despite Jack Keys on the teehead) was beaten by the gritty, go-for-broke Prince Edward Islanders of Doug Cameron, then Gervais had the same kind of lock-up going for him that the Yankees had back in the late 30s.

But until Tom Caldwell squirted his last rock wide on the 12th end of the final round, Gervais' world was crumbling about him.

He, too, on the ninth round, had been pistol-whipped by the Islanders — 11-7 — and the Ontario warriors gave him as dismal a three hours as curling can offer.

On the centre sheet of ice in the Corral, Gervais had only to knock off Ontario for a clear win. It wasn't a game. It was a study in frustration. After eight ends, Caldwell had whipped his team into a 9-4 lead. It wasn't that difficult, either, because Gervais' rink was playing in a fashion that made one suspect nothing more than a club championship was at stake.

COMPETITIVE EDGE

There were, of course, such circumstances as rocks which lost their turn. But there was no disputing the fact that the rink was curling badly. And this could be attributed to lack of skill (hardly plausible), an advanced case of the yips (much more likely), or the impossibility of maintaining a fine competitive edge for ten games.

Two sheets away, Saskatchewan was thumping Manitoba and mentally preparing itself for a playoff that evening. And who could blame them? Even Ontario, it seemed, could make a 9-4 lead playing the ninth stand up. And Saskatchewan's desire for revenge took on a wholesome flavor.

But the playoff (which would have been the first since Ernie Richardson squeezed past Herbie Olson in Quebec City in 1959) wasn't to be. Saskatchewan did its share, sending Manitoba and John-David Lyon scuttling down to third place.

Gervais, though, called on some inner reserve of fortitude, beckoned to the patron saint of curling to at least give him an even break, and parlayed these to a couple of key, but probably inevitable, misses by Ontario's Caldwell who prefers the spectacular to the routine.

It was a 10-9 cliff-hanger, missed by thousands of fans who had estimated, most reasonably, that the final draw was a formality.

There are thousands, of course, who'll never be convinced that Gervais could have won the playoff. Gervais, himself, pays at least lip service to this reasoning.

9-1 HELD UP

But Gervais' 9-1 record held up, as it has so often in Brier play. Still he couldn't become the first skip since Matt Baldwin (back in 1957) to roll through the classic undefeated.

Winnipeg's John-David Lyon nailed down third place for Manitoba, the best that might have been expected under the circumstances. As pleasant and skilled as this portly shotmaker is, he came into the Brier with a rink short of usual Manitoba standards.

It might have been the year for a record third-place finish for Prince Edward Island. Doug Cameron came back with his rink intact from last year and set a course record for P.E.I. at least, knocking over both Alberta and Saskatchewan in the same year.

But he let some other ones get away and when he lost 10-7 to Nova Scotia on the final draw, he missed the chance for a 7-3 finish which would have been good for a share of third and the Island's best-ever showing. For example, Cameron missed a wide-open takeout on the extra end against Manitoba. Had he won that one, he would have been in heady company.

There were, of course, the hatchmen who insisted that the calibre of curling was poorer than in many years. This can't be dismissed lightly. There were many astonishingly large ends scored on the power rinks. New Brunswick, for example, manufactured a four-ender against Alberta.

And it's frightening to think of what Matt Baldwin (on hand, by the way, for every draw) would have done against the field. And Cliff Manahan, twice a winner in this sort of company, shook his head at times over the teehead strategy.

But there was no faulting the production itself. The reins of general chairman were handed to Irl England and he came up with possibly the grandest show ever.

Calgary produced an actual attendance figure of 51,575 — the true turnstile figure.

For the Alberta-Saskatchewan game, 8,124 turned out. And for the three draws that day there were 18,002.

And Gervais (with Ron Anton, Ray Werner and Wally Ursuliak) did join the Manahans, the Palmers, the Roses and the Baldwins — men who previously brought the Tankard to Alberta. The next few years will determine if he belongs with them.

Fort Macleod Curling Club supplied the district's representatives in the Southern Alberta Consols playdowns at Medicine Hat. Harvey Bourassa skipped the rink of Abe Vandervelden, George Lantinga and Tom Schuitema.

A Blairmore rink the district Taylor, Pearson and Carson title. On the rink were Brent Gilbert (skip), Ken Kishka, Bob Smith and Frank Capron.

The district Consols playdowns were held at the Fernie Club. Fernie's invitational bonspiel had the highest entry ever — 58. As well, the club's annual mixed bonspiel was held Labor Day weekend with 24 rinks. Mickey Brennan's Trail rink took top honors.

Convener Gower Kennedy was ill through much of the season and his work was taken over by Harvey Bourassa.

The Blairmore Club reports a poor season because of the fact that curling was unable to start until January. The annual Bunny Bonspiel at Blairmore drew 88 rinks, with rinks from Alberta and Saskatchewan, and again established itself as a popular event.

Lethbridge rinks represented the district in both the Consols and Taylor, Pearson and Carson playdowns. The district's Consols title went to a rink skipped by Tom Henderson. He had with him Sam Stewart, Charles Waldie and Lloyd Wilkin.

On the schoolboy championship rink, skipped by Ron Boal, was Brian Quittenbaum (son of the convener), Bill Waldie and Jim Moscovich. They emerged as Southern Alberta champions, only to lose the provincial championship.

The Lethbridge Club also stages the Rainbow bonspiel each year and it is now one of the top events on the curling calendar.

The district's Taylor, Pearson and Carson playdowns will be held in Lethbridge January 20. The district's Consols playdowns will be held at the same club January 24.

Medicine Hat Curling Club held the Southern Alberta British Consols playdowns, a well-run production handled by Lloyd Hubbs and former convener John Foulston.

A reception and banquet was held on the night prior to the playoffs.

A rink from Taber represented the district in the playoffs and skip Lew Pollard established himself as a skip of top playoff calibre. Undoubtedly more will be heard from the crew-cut shotmaker. On his rink were Norm Thomson, Ken Petersen and Ivan Eriksen.

In the Taylor, Pearson and Carson playdowns a rink from Vauxhall won the district title. Lyle Davis skipped Marvin Blaney, Wayne Whitlock and Wayne Migneault.

Claresholm and Barons supplied the district representatives in Southern Alberta playoffs.

Claresholm won the TPC crown, with a rink of Bruce Botheras, Tom Cochlan, Denny Anderson and Vic Sparks.

In Consols play it was the Barons rink of Roy Lyons, Roy Kananen, George Andreckson and Denny Irvine.

The Claresholm Club has had more success than any in the district. It has sent representatives to both the Dominion schoolboy and Brier championships.

Only one club, the Turin Club, has natural ice. The rest have all followed the swing to the more dependable artificial ice.

Okotoks and Turner Valley split the district playoff honors. Milt Skow took the Consols title with his rink of Jim McLeod, Joe Heatter and Dave Dillabough.

In the TPC action, it was the Turner Valley rink of Gordon Stauffer, Art Patterson, Bert Daye and Lorne Simmons.

Okotoks held the Foothills Bonspiel, probably the oldest in the province.

The first event and the Okotoks Cup was won by Slim Otterson of Calgary. Bob Jordison of Calgary won the second event and John Wolfe of Vulcan won the third, and the fourth.

The fifth event went to veteran Stu Beagle and Lawrence Yeomans of Blackie won the sixth event.

The Jordison rink won the grand aggregate and Wolfe the Foothills-affiliated aggregate.

Milo, despite its size, provided district six representatives for both the Taylor, Pearson and Carson and British Consols playdowns.

Dale Phillips skipped the schoolboy rink in the Southern Alberta playdowns at Lethbridge with Wallace Anderson at third, Charles Anderson at second and Cliff Beckner leading.

There were some familiar names on the Consols rink — Don Dietz, Ian Thompson, Dave Dietz and Hap Heather.

The Vulcan club provides one of curling's most interesting success stories. The new building and artificial ice facilities were financed by storing grain.

Stu Beagle, more than any other man, has made the district one to be reckoned with in playdowns. And the schoolboys, too, have had their innings in the TPC playoffs.

Artificial ice fever still hasn't swept district seven, Art Simpson's district on the Calgary-Medicine Hat line. Well over half the clubs still have natural ice.

The district's representatives in the Southern Alberta playdowns at Medicine Hat went as far as the final before losing out to Nick Lashuk's Calgary rink. On the Bassano rink were some familiar names—Norm Dalsto, Aubrey Gore, Ralph Burrows and Cliff MacLean.

The district is best remembered for providing the Southern Alberta championship rink for three straight years, 1956 - 1957 - 1958 under the skipping of Art Simpson.

After an unexpected setback, plans have now been approved for an eight-sheet artificial ice rink at Banff which will give the district its biggest curling operation. The building, too, is expected to figure prominently if the area's bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics is accepted.

The Banff bonspiel has always been one of the season's most popular events and regularly draws a large number of Calgary curlers. The Springbank bonspiel, too, gets a big play from the Calgarians.

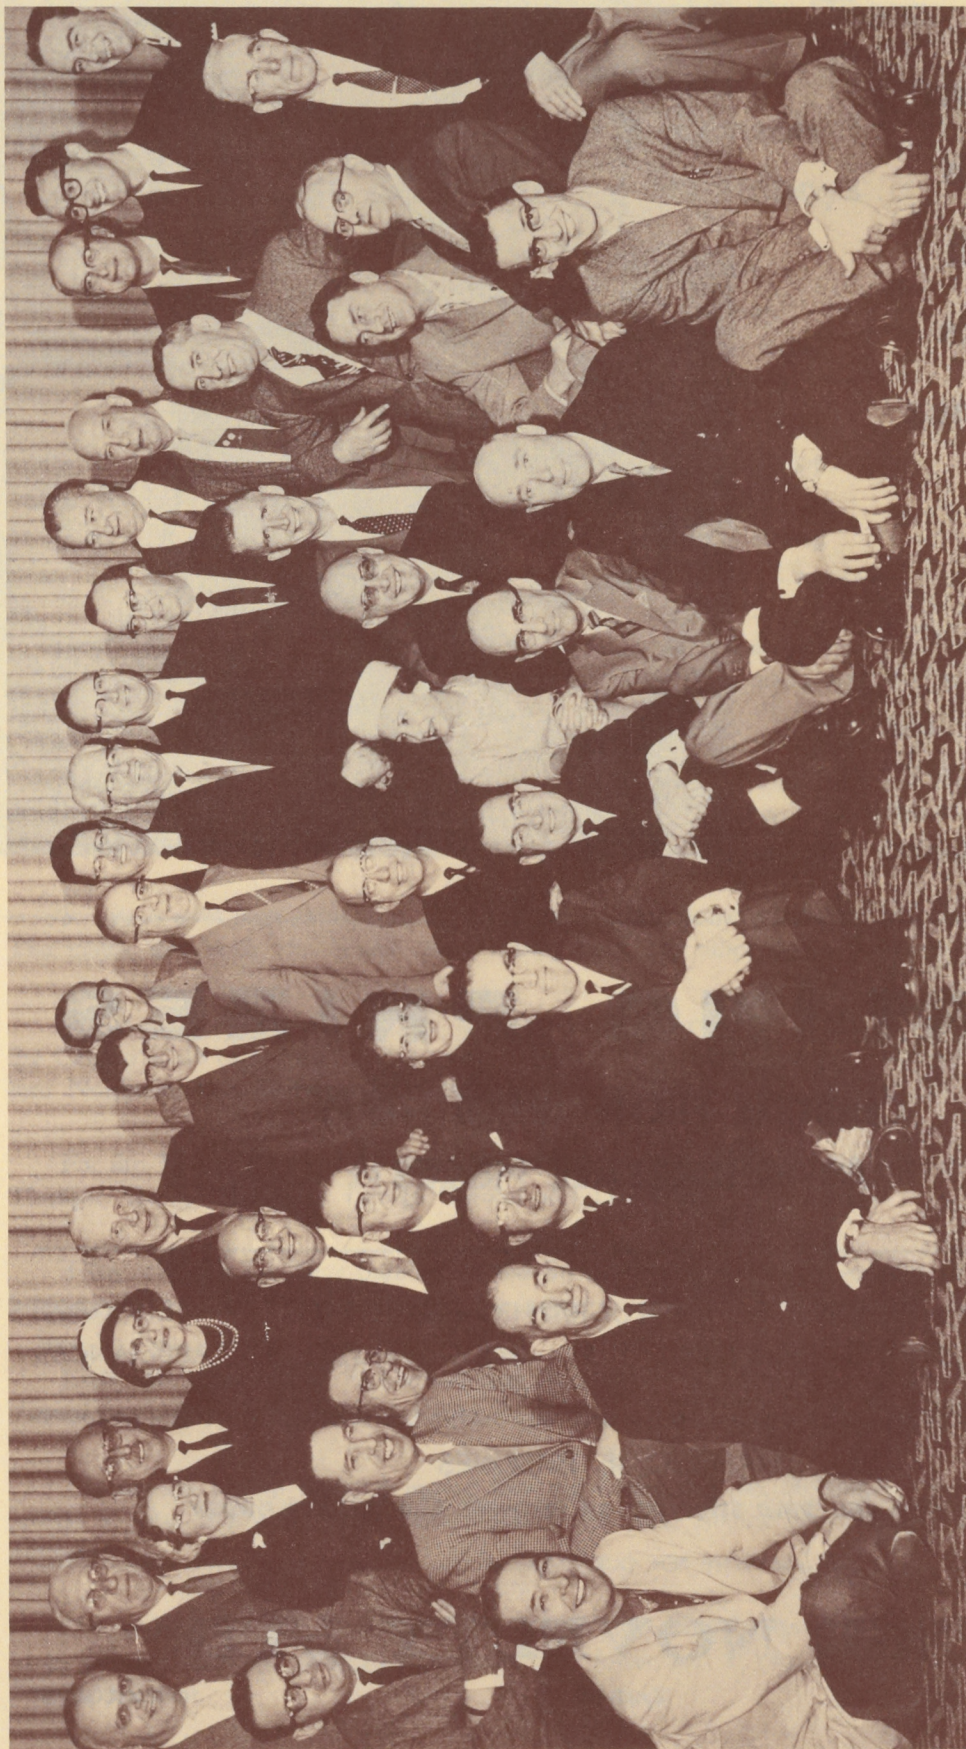

And it was a rink from Springbank which represented District Eight in schoolboy playdowns. Skip was Don Bateman with Ralph Colpitts, Euan Hodgetts and Leonard Cooke.

In Consols action, the Banff rink skipped by Larry Hubbs emerged. He had with him Lionel Gundry-White, Dick Young and Joe Stella for the Southern Alberta playdowns at Medicine Hat.

The 1961 Canadian curling championship, and the success it proved to be, didn't just come about. Scores of branch members participated, some for as long as a full year before the event was held. Committees were set up under Irl England, general chairman, and the time and effort they put into their duties were evidenced in the final result. Pictured above are most of the members of the various committees. From left to right, back row: Dr. A. B. Blumes, W. J. Morrison, Mrs. Marj Baker, C. L. It will be a long time before Calgary (comprising the two districts of 9 and 10) is able to duplicate the curling fever that gripped it during the last season. The reason was the return of the Canadian curling championships for the first time since 1948.

It was the grandest show of them all (under chairman Irl England) and there were record crowds for the 11 draws in the Stampede Corral. Hec Gervais, of course, won but so narrowly that one rock was the reason a playoff didn't come about.

It was a week-long show that earned praise for the entire committee and the branch and the city. The event, too, made the branch more money than any other single venture.

But there was other curling, too. The city playoffs were held at the Glencoe with two rinks from the Calgary Club capturing the city spots — Nick Lashuk, Arnold Brown, Don Jarret and Darryl Birnie; Ron Northcott, Don Bethune, Bill Levins and Gerry Seaman.

For the Taylor, Pearson and Carson Southern Alberta playoffs the city's standard was carried by Don Thonger, George Campbell, George Gordon and Don Ross.

Then, too, the Big Four building at the Stampede Grounds added another 24 sheets of artificial ice, bringing the total to 48 and making it the largest curling palace in the world.

Early this season Ernie Richardson and Hec Gervais brought their rinks to Calgary for a battle of champions, held in the Stampede Corral.

The annual branch bonspiel moved into the Corral, too, for the finals — another first. The move proved popular and would have been repeated this time around but for previous Corral hockey commitments.

Out at Elbow Valley, Ernie McPherson may have started a trend by putting in two sets of pipes in an effort to beat the swingy-ice problem. The lower set of pipes carries warm brine, the top the freezing element.

But all in all, it was Brier year. And it might just never be duplicated.

District 11 is viewed as one of the best-run districts in the branch, largely due to the efforts of Art Dunsmore. He calls district meetings, a rarity among the conveners, and has scheduled this year's for December 6. And not only a district meeting, but eight-end games for the representatives as well.

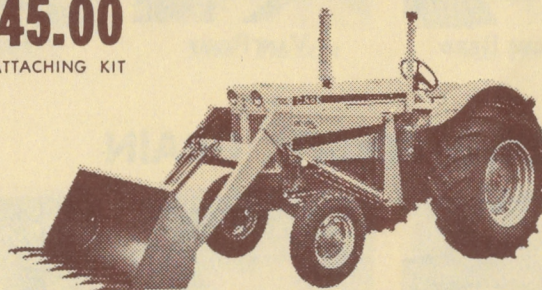

British Consols playdowns were held at Carbon January 24 and 25. Rinks participated from Rosebud, Carbon, Beiseker, Irricana, Strathmore and Rockyford. Irricana won the district crown with a rink of Eldon Wray, Gordon Drake, Bob Knight and Erv Culp. For the Southern Alberta playdowns Doug Pedersen and Norm Kirkwald replaced the lead and second.

Taylor, Pearson and Carson playdowns were held at Strathmore January 14. There were rinks from every eligible high school. The rink from Kathryn won out and represented the district in Southern Alberta playdowns at Lethbridge. On the rink were Ken Steele (skip), Terry Drake, Zane Block and Dennis Gieck.

The sweet smell of success. Brier chairman Irl England and past branch president Art Fredell admire a cheque for $13,275 — proceeds from the week. In the lower picture, the handsomely-decorated Stampede Corral is seen during one of the draws. It was a magnificent site for the week-long presentation.

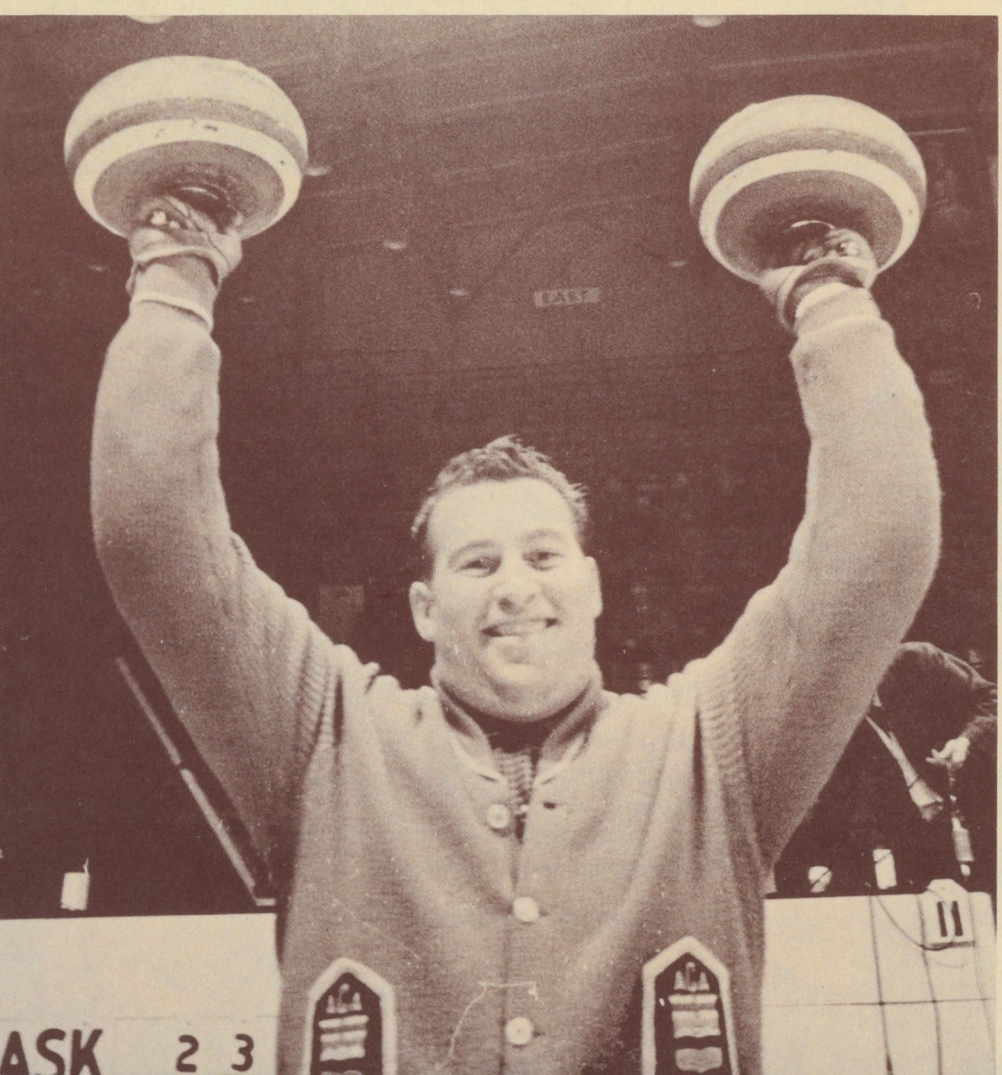

There was some thought went into winning the Canadian curling championship, as evidenced by Hec Gervais' perplexed conversation with third Ron Anton. At bottom John David-Lyon, the only man ever to skip Brier rinks from two provinces, is shown with his Manitoba warriors.

There was wonderment in the enemy camp, too. Jack Keys, skip of the Saskatchewan rink, ponders a bit before calling for a shot from third Garnet Campbell. And above, third R. R. Coward of the Ontario rink during the crucial game with Alberta which almost forced a playoff on the final night.

There was no doubt about the interest, considering that more than 50,000 people turned out during the five days. Some of them are shown above during the tense Alberta - Saskatchewan game which was probably the highlight of the event. At left, a jubilant Hec Gervais hoists a pair of stones to accommodate photographers just after he won his first Canadian title.

Since the hey-day of Bill Allan, the district hasn't been able to do much in the way of a Consols championship. Last year a rink from Olds, the home of the convener, Jim McLeod, represented the district. On the rink were Ted Miller, Ken Gillrie, Ken Turnbull and Ralph Maybank.

The previous year Crossfield supplied both district representatives. Last season it could supply only the high school winners — Bill Irwin, Glenn Shantz, David Banta and Bobby Wood.

The Olds club holds one of the biggest bonspiels in the district and puts ice into the arena to provide extra sheets.

Convener Stan Freeman reports that no replies have been received from Bowden, Spruce View or Caroline — indicating that the game has died out in those parts.

But in the remainder of the district the interest remains high with Red Deer and Innisfail providing the district representatives in last season's playoffs.

Consols championship was taken by the Innisfail rink of John Edgar, Glen Temple, Norm Sveinson and John Duncan.

Red Deer won the Taylor, Pearson and Carson title — Percy Cullen, Terry Daniel, Jim Chatenay and Dick Farwell.

Both Red Deer and Innisfail hold farmers' bonspiels each year which are probably the largest in the west.

District 14 has more clubs for its size than any other within the boundaries of the Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Clubs. Its affairs are looked after by convener Pat Webb.

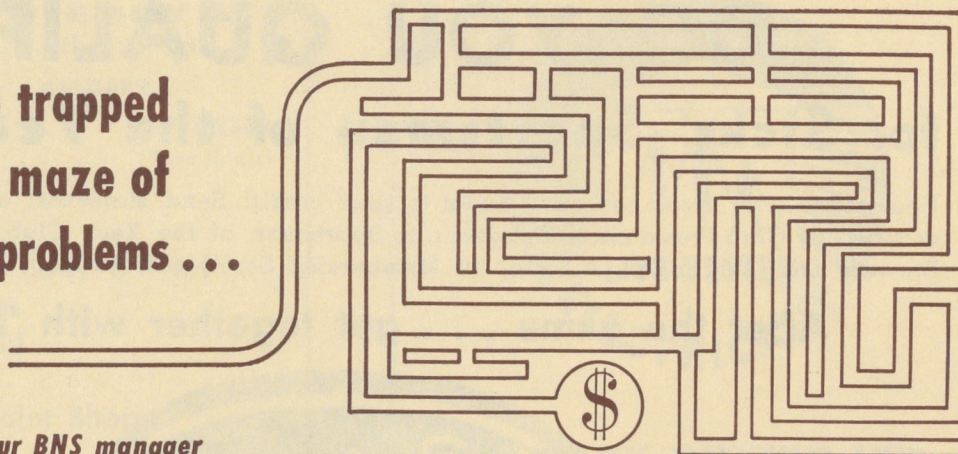

Delburne and Three Hills, at opposite ends of the district, supplied the playoff representatives.

The Three Hills rink, skipped by Bob Empey, won the district Consols title. With him were Ray Lea, Done Boese and Dick Webb.

The TPC crown went to the Delburne rink skipped by Raymond Smith. With him were Gerald Loewen, Wally Greenwood and Warren Williamson.

Much work on artificial ice has to be done in the district. The percentage of natural ice rinks is higher than in any other district. The district has never had a Consols or TPC champion.

Drumheller is one of the largest districts within the branch, covering the big country from Drumheller in the west to Pollockville in the east. The district may be short on top curlers, but not on hospitality. A trip to any of the bonspiels is ample evidence of that.

Artificial ice is now installed in Delia, Hanna, Big Valley and Drumheller and Morrin and Rumsey are giving it serious consideration.

The district was represented in the British Consols playdowns by a rink from Drumheller, skipped by Bert Ickringill. He had with him Bill Wright, Sid Smith and Dinnie Brown.

And in Taylor, Pearson and Carson playoffs at Lethbridge it was again a rink from Drumheller — Jim Clark, Don Norman, Ronnie Sorenson and Monty Bryant.

District 15 is known as bonspiel country. And the Drumheller bonspiel, especially, ranks high on the list of musts.

Vast district 16 is divided into sections. It used to send two representatives to Taylor, Pearson and Carson playdowns but only one into British Consols playdowns. Now there is one for each.

Acadia Valley represented the area in Consols play last season at Medicine Hat. Bill Gibson skipped the rink and he had with him Rod Marshall, Wayne Peers and Bernie Niwa.

In the TPC action, section A was won by a rink from New Brigden — Vic Kroker, Roy Pratt, Wayne Wilson and Allan Laycock. The other district winner came from Oyen — Gary Shantz, Arthur Berg, Fred Sanderson and Frank Campbell.

Remember the curler at right? He's Glenn Williams, one of the branch's most outstanding curlers back in the 1940s. In two years, 1942 and 1944, he won the southern championship and was a consistent bonspiel winner. At left is Hugh Brown, winner of the provincial title back in 1955 and one of the best of the province's younger skips.

AN ATHLETE FOR SECRETARY

Secretary of the Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Club, is Charlie Scott. It's his third year at the post that he took over from Stan Foss. He's also secretary of the Alberta Golf Association. Not only does he handle both jobs in superb fashion (as well as his position with Imperial Life) he's an excellent athlete himself. In earlier days he was an outstanding football and baseball player. Now his sport is restricted to golf (one of the smoothest swings around) and curling. He is one of sport's most popular men and his golf and curling participation and duties have made him known throughout the province.

A Schoolboy Program

The profits that the Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Club, has amassed over the years is going to be directed partly towards the schoolboy curlers.

Officials of the branch have announced that two bursaries worth $300 apiece (and good in the United States and Canada) will be awarded to schoolboy curlers.

As yet it has not been decided on just what level the scholarships will be awarded. Possibly anyone participating in the playdowns will be eligible. Otherwise, it might be restricted to those reaching the Southern Alberta playdowns.

Chairman of the committee investigating the scholarship plan is Ken Anderson.

Part of the funds will come from the profit turned in Calgary in 1959 when it staged the Canadian schoolboy championships.

The branch also has funds from both the 1948 and 1961 Canadian curling championships.

The Branch Loses One Of The Best

The Alberta branch, Royal Caledonian Curling Club, lost one of its most enthusiastic supporters this summer with the death of Mel Huget. His passing was mourned by curlers who had been aware for some time of his serious illness. He was a past president and honorary life member of the branch and of his many hours of labor devoted to curling, he's best remembered for the work he did in getting the Calgary Curling Club started. He was, too, an excellent curler and figured prominently in both bonspiel and Consols play.

Art Simpson, Norm Dalsto, Ralph Burrows and Ron Brent drink a toast of sorts after the first of three straight southern Alberta championships that Simpson manufactured.

A bevy of former Canadian champions, representing a variety of eras, gather and swap memories after the giant Brier dinner held in the Palliser hotel.

AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of
Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland (Alberta Branch)

We have examined the balance sheet of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club of Scotland (Alberta Branch) as at March 31, 1961 and the statement of income for the year then ended and have accepted the figures as shown on the balance sheet as at March 31, 1960.

Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, the attached statements present fairly the state of the affairs of the Club as at March 31, 1961 and the results of its operations for the year ended on that date.
